To the Editor of the Courier.

SIR,

You recently published some Stanzas to the memory of one who had died in childhood. However painful such an event must be to parents & relatives, I was struck with the reflection that those who sorrow over such a calamity, may be comprehended within a very narrow circle, compared with the sufferers who mourn the loss of a friend snatched away in the summer or autumn of Life, with his faculties still unimpaired, his affections in full vigour, and the value of his continuence amongst them inexpressibly great to widely extended connections.—

We have lately in many instances had these thoughts too strikingly brought home to us; and as you, yourself, Sir, are unfortunately amongst those who have had most legitimate cause for regret, the following lines may not be unacceptable to you.

A FRIEND TO DEPARTED WORTH.

We are call'd to weep o'er the Infant dead
And the pensive Muse with the tribute shed
Delights to moisten her cypress-wreath;
But to me more heavy the stroke of Death,
To me the ruin more dreary shews,
When the heart that with manly ardor glows,
When the mind, its energies richly fraught,
With the stores of science, the flash of thought,
And the frame unwither'd by winter's sway,
When these are veil'd in the dark array,
That leads to the silent tomb;
O then is the hour for Mem'ry's gloom,
For the anchoret's hope, or his pausing fear,
And the Seraph Pity's unceasing tear.
I mark'd on the streamlet's margin low,
A willow in earliest verdure grow,
I mark'd as the idle pilgrim pass'd
That he pluck'd the willow in heedless haste
And flung on the pebbly shore;
There trode another with careless foot,
On the tell-tale mould of the sever'd root,
And "its place was known no more."
But I saw a proud oak, that for many a year
Did his ample crest o'er the streamlet rear,
Enwrapp'd the blue waters in depth of shade,
While around his stem sweet Infants play'd;
Tho'storms might rave thro' the Dryad's grot,
He shook his green honors, yet lost them not;
But the sway of that woodland monarch pass'd,
For the merciless whirlwind came at last;
I saw his stem split; and the groaning arms
That had wav'd defiance to winter's harms,
In thunder bestrew the ground;
Those marled roots all rent & riv'n,
Beheld the unwonted light of Heav'n,
And the wounded Earth deform'd & bare
Disclos'd a sad scene of Ruin there,
Dark, desolate all around!—

GENERAL ORDERS.

BOMBAY CASTLE, 6TH JULY 1822

By The Honorable the Governor in Council,

THE furlough granted to Lieutenant J. B. Seely of the 4th Regiment Native Infantry to sea for a period of 12 months from the 19th December 1821, by the General Order of the 19th of April last, is extended to Europe according to the Regulations.

Bombay Castle, 8th July 1822.

The Hon'ble the Governor in Council directs that upon every occasion of troops embarking for the Persian Gulph, the Agent for Clothing supply the men with the usual articles of warm clothing without a reference to Government; on Indent to be countersigned by the Adjutant General.

Bombay Castle, 9th July 1822.

The Hon'ble the Governor in Council is pleased to establish the following regulation regarding allowances to Wives, and Children, of European Non-commissioned Officers and Soldiers, of His Majesty's, and the Hon'ble Company's Service under this Presidency.

Five Rupees per mensem, is the allowance at present granted to European Wives, & eight Rupees to the European Widows, of all Non-commissioned Officers and Soldiers: the Widow's allowance, to be hereafter payable only for six months from the date of her Husband's demise, except under a monthly Certificate by the Town Major, or Brigade Major of King's Troops, that the detention of the Widow in this Country, beyond that period, has been occasioned by the want of an opportunity of providing her with a passage to England.

In accordance with the principle of a regulation of the Supreme Government, the above allowances are extended to Women of colour, Natives of the West Indies, married to European Soldiers, and who may have accompanied their Husbands, from Europe, to India.

Under the precedent of the General Orders of the Most Noble the Governor General in Council, dated Calcutta 21st August 1821 and 26th January 1822, an allowance of four Rupees per mensem, commencing from the 1st instant, is granted to Wives of European Non-commissioned Officers and Soldiers upon this Establishment, who are the offspring of Native Women by European Fathers, and who have been, or shall be married out of the Central School of the Bombay Education Society, or who not having been educated at that School, shall be furnished with a certificate of Christian Education and good character, from the Chaplain of the Station at which they have habitually resided; which allowance is also granted to the Wives of Drummers, Buglers, Trumpeters, or Farriers, they being the offspring of European Fathers, and married to Women of the above description.

Considering the distinction which the foregoing rule would occasion between the wives of such Soldiers, and those who may have married the offspring of Native Women by European Fathers, otherwise than as above described, before such distinction could be known by them, the indulgence is extended to all wives born of European Fathers who shall have been married previous to the promulgation of this order.

An allowance of two Rupees per month is granted for every legitimate child, or Orphan of European Non-commissioned Officers and privates on the Establishment, from the birth of such child, until its attaining the age of fourteen years, but to cease at such earlier period, as the child may be otherwise provided for, in which case, it is no longer to be borne on the Regimental Rolls.

Whenever any child for whom this allowance may be granted, shall be admitted as a Boarder into either of the central schools of the Bombay Education Society, the said allowance shall be encreased from two, to five Rupees per Month, during the time such child shall so remain under the Society.

The encreased allowance of five Rupees, to be paid by the Military Pay-master at the Presidency, on a monthly Bill preferred by the Secretary of the Society, vouched by a nominal roll of the children, specifying their dates of birth, and of admission into the school, with the Names of their Fathers and the Regiments to which they respectively belonged, the Bill containing the first charge after the admission of a child, being accompanied also by a certificate of last payment, to be granted by the Pay-master of the Regiment, or other officer by whom the child's allowance had been previously drawn.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Governor in Council.

F. WARDEN;
Chief Secretary.

THE COURIER.

BOMBAY.

SATURDAY, 13TH JULY 1822.

The third sessions of oyer and terminer &c., for this island &c., commences this morning. There is no business of much interest. About ten new cases, felonies of the usual description, and four or five indictments for misdemeanors traversed from former sessions, are all the cases that we at present know of, which are likely to be brought before the Court.

An accurate account of the circumstances that marked the melancholy loss of the ill fated BLENDEN HALL, will, we doubt not, prove very acceptable to the public:—much interest has naturally been excited, and it will be satisfactory to a great portion of an enlightened society to be put in possession of a faithful narrative of the particulars that attended the wreck.—We hope the intention of the Passenger who advertises his purpose to publish this account, will succeed; and we shall lose no time in passing it thro' the Press.

Mad. Cour. June 24th 1822.

The weather during some days of the past week has been similar to that after the middle of last month—the Barometer however was rather lower—with appearances which equally indicated bad weather, at no great distance—and while we trust we shall not hear of further loss and damage at Sea, we should not by any means be surprised to find, as in last month, that some had taken place. Although very little Rain has fallen at the Presidency, where a supply is much required, we may conclude from the coolness of the land wind, there has not been the same Scarcity in the adjacent parts of the Country.

The Ship Cambridge arrived at St. Helena from Madras, in the early part of April—having on board [illegible] of George Paske, Esq. who died at Sea a few days before the Ship reached the Island. The Funeral took place on the 3th, and the Cambridge sailed for England on the 12th. The Commodore Hayes, Marquis of Hastings, Andromeda and Woodford had also arrived at St. Helena early in April, and had sailed again after a short stay.

The Ship Georgiana, Captain Babcock, from Bombay the 6th instant, arrived in the Roads on Saturday.

A most violent Storm burst over Calcutta on the night of Friday last, which must have disturbed the sleep of the soundest. The furious peals of crashing thunder reverberating immediately over head were truly appalling, and in the pauses between each peal of the 'artillery of heaven,' the mind naturally reverted to the thousands who were exposed to the utmost horrors of the tempest on the great deep. Accounts from Dinapore mention, that boats without number have been lost on the Ganges, and that the Patna shores were covered with wrecks. Several lives must have been lost, though no particulars have yet reached us. In the lower provinces the hopes of the Indigo-planters have been bitterly disappointed. These, however, are but trivial effects of the late storms, in comparison with the tremendous detail of devastation and misery, which it is our painful duty to notice. What are we to expect from the next shipping accounts, when we are told that in one place on the land one hundred thousand lives have been lost! It is truly dreadful to think of such a terrible misfortune. The source of our intelligence upon the melancholy occasion, is from the following extract of a letter from Jessore:—

"Ten days ago, my Indigo prospects were promising beyond any thing I could have calculated upon. Since that period, the most violent hurricane ever remembered in this quarter, accompanied with a deluge of rain, has destroyed full one half of our plants, and rendered the recovery of a great part of the remainder precarious. The storm lasted 48 hours, and swept houses and every thing before it. Many trees were torn up by the roots and carried to a distance of several feet. I never witnessed such a scene of devastation as this place presented. The rain continued almost without intermission for 4 days after the storm ceased, so that the whole country is under water.

"I have just seen a letter from the acting Magistrate at Burrisaul, about 120 miles to the Eastward of this station, detailing the effects of the late storm, which commenced there on the afternoon of the 7th. I scarcely ever perused a more melancholy account. Burisaul is situated on the banks of the Megna, which river from the fury of the winds, broke over its boundaries in every direction, and inundated the whole country to an alarming depth. The river rose so rapidly, that on the 8th at night, they had upwards of five feet water in their houses; and the current was so strong, that the doors and windows were burst open, and a regular rush of water set in through the houses. This gentleman says he contrived to get two palankeens to the top of his house, and retreated thither with his wife and children as a last resort. The Register's and Doctor's houses were carried away, or at least fell in from the violence of the storm: nearly the whole property of the Residents at the station was destroyed. Had this been the extent of the damage however, it would have been of little consequence comparatively speaking; but alas! the sufferings of the native inhabitants are not to be described. No fewer than one lac of lives are said to have been lost on this occasion, together with the whole of the cattle and grain of every description both in store and what was on the ground. The dead bodies were floating in every direction, and carried with the current through the houses. The writer states, that no rice was to be procured, even for the prisoners and that he felt he should be obliged to release them from Jail, otherwise they must starve. From what information he could obtain, the district could not supply food for ten day's consumption to the inhabitants who have escaped this dreadful visitation. I should think the writer meant to the include in the lac, the lives of the cattle lost, although I would certainly infer from the letter, that 100,000 human being perished. I have not heard if the storm reached beyond this district to the northward and westward.

Government have been applied to in behalf of the unhappy survivors of this terrific visitation of Providence. We have no doubt but with their wonted liberality, they will do every thing in their power to help and to alleviate the condition of the poor creatures We are much afraid (though we have as yet heard nothing from that quarter) that the late storms may have extended their devastating influence to the Island of Saugor.

As the Salt Sale, which commenced on Friday last, did not terminate till the evening of Saturday, we have not as yet been able to ascertain the average. The probability is, that it will be about 25 per cent. under the average of the former sale. The greatest quantity, we understand, was bought by a Shroff, commissioned to bid by 7 or 8 Merchants in the bazar. The wealthy native to whom we alluded when mentioning the late dearness of Salt in consequence of an alledged monopoly, was present at Saturday's sale, but did not buy much. From the Hurkaru of Saturday we take the account of the sale, which immediately follows:—

"The third sale of the Hon'ble Co.'s Salt took place at the Exchange Rooms yesterday, and attracted an immense crowd of Natives, some with a view to make purchases and probably a far greater number actuated by mere curiosity. The sale commenced about 11, and we have obtained a note, of the average prices given up to 1 o'clock, which we subjoin. We understand that the great purchasers at the former sales having (as the phrase is) burnt their fingers kept aloof on this occasion: and the sale therefore proceeded slowly, owing to the great number of competitors offering small sums, and shy of each other. At about quarter before two o'clock 22 successive lots did not bring on an average 400 rupees each; a depression that might however be owing perhaps to the inferior quality of the Salt of which various sorts are set forth in the Advertisement. The whole quantity to be sold at this time is eight lakhs of maunds, but the sale of the remainder was adjourned. The first lot was sold for 556 Rupees.

India Gaz. June 17.

OUTRAGE IN OUDE.

It is every day becoming more and more evident, that (as the India Gazette observed on Monday,) "let it be glossed over, as it best can by those paid for the same verily it appeareth, that all is not right in Oude." Whether the present minister, Moatumud-ood-Dowlah, was formerly a bihishtee or a khidmutgar, is of little consequence, provided he have acquired his present rank by personal merit, and demean himself worthy of his situation; and the coolness between the Prince Royal and his father, is also comparatively unimportant. But when the mischiefs of mis-government force themselves on our attention, (as has been well observed,) "it is not in the nature of a Public writer, with the feelings of a man, to hear tales of misery, oppression and misrule, without noticing them in some way." To the long catalogue of charges against the police of Oudh, another of an atrocious nature is now added, as will be seen from a letter given in next column from the Cawnpore Advertiser. We were already familiar with many heavy charges; as that of the public dawk being plundered, treasure being attacked and carried off, a military bazar being despoiled and its guards butchered, people being assassinated in the public streets in open day, servants murdered by night near their home, a sepoy's house being violated and justice not rendered, a lady being assaulated and threatened with a drawn dagger in a public street, &c. yet notwithstanding all that has been written on the subject, these evils do not seem likely soon to have an end. Nor is this to be wondered at, if it be true, as asserted, that if it is impossible to obtain redress in the Oudh territories, unless it be purchased with gold; and we are told that from this impunity of crime in that country, it has even become the nursery of robbers and murderers, who infest the adjoining districts.

The atrocious assault committed on Mr. Chick, is attended with some circumstances that render it peculiarly tragical and cruel. This gentleman, we understand, was formerly a Lieutenant in the navy; and having unfortunately fallen down a hatchway, and got his back broken, after recovering from this accident he remained considerably deformed. He was afterwards in the employ of Messrs. Hogue Davidson and Co. and latterly engaged to proceed to the Upper Provinces, as an assistant to Mr. Fraser, in making a survey of some part of the country. By the Letter in question, we learn he had been married only a few days; and he appears to have been accompanied with his wife, and some other female friends when he met with the lamentable disaster described. This moreover happened, while he was generously endeavouring to shield one of his people, from similar treatement. We hope the most energetic measures will be taken, to bring the perpetrators to justice, as a warning to other lawless marauders, and to ensure some security for the lives and properties of persons traveling from one point to another, in that part of the Company's territories.

We are afraid there is too much reason to doubt that if this be left entirely to Moatumud-ood-Dowlah, and his creatures, they will be more ready to commute the crime for a small douceur, than to bring the offenders to punishment, from any public spirited motive of putting a stop to similar outrages, or revenging the cruel sufferings and mutilations of a peaceful traveller; altho they are bound to protect or avenge him by the laws of honor and hospitality recognised among all nations that have any pretence to call themselves civilised. But we are fully persuaded that a Govenment sincerely anxious to promote the happiness of all under its sway, will neglect nothing that can be done consistent with sound policy, which recommends the utmost delicacy in interfering with affairs of the Native powers. The Public may rest assured that for a real evil of this magnitude so fully ascertained to exist, the most suitable and efficient remedy will be devised by those who possess the best information regarding the cause of the outrages in Oude, their extent and the means of repressing them. We hope that the fullest publicity given through the medium of the papers to every event of this nature, will have the effect of hastening the preventive measure that are evidently called for, proceed from what quarter they may.

To the Editor of the Cawnpore Advertiser.

SIR,

It is with painful sensations that I have to record, through the medium of your Paper, an act committed most maliciously, on the body of an unarmed individual, on the River Ganges, by what are called, the Nabob's people on the opposite side.

A Gentleman of the name of Chick, together with a few friends were calmly tracking up from Cawnpore returning to Futty Ghur until their arrival at Raj Ghaut (a few coss above Mendy Ghaut) where their progress was delayed; the Mangee of a Boat lying at the Ghaut, not passing the Goon or Track rope over the mast of his boat as is customary, a Chuprassee in the employ of Mr. Chick remonstrated with the fellow on the impropriety of his conduct. At first, the Mangee desired to wait a little, and again that he would not pass to the Goon, that he would cut it for his own use, were it even to draw water with.

The Chuprassee finding not even a shadow of compliance, he went on shore, and desired the Mangee immediately to obey the orders he had just given him or that he should be under the necessity of enforcing them, at the same time bringing him into his (The Mangee's) Boat for the purpose. The fellow instantly made a noise, and a man, armed with a sword and shield, &c. came up and struck the Chuprassee with a drawn sword across the back, which laid him flat on the ground.

Mr. Chick seeing his servant thus attacked, jumped on shore with a gun unloaded unfortunately, and went to his assistance, asking the armed man what authority or right he had to molest his servant, giving him a shove, and desiring him to go away to avoid further disturbances. A second armed man; standing at about a distance of 20 or 30 yards, came instantly running up with a drawn sword also, and attacked Mr. Chick, making a blow at his head. Mr. C. little imagined where the fellow was coming to, until actually aimed at, when, to save his head, he put up his left arm and received the wound on the wrist; instantly wielding his sword, the man aimed a second blow at the shoulder, leaving a small remnant of flesh, by which it hung; raising a hue and cry at the same time that as the "Sahib was dead" to "Loot Loot" meaning "Plunder, Plunder."

At this juncture Mr. C. remembered the danger to which his friends (chiefly female) would be exposed to by the coming down of a body, as he expected, and which ultimately proved true, and judging it expedient to give them the alarm, raised himself, and with the greatest effort made a run, but from loss of blood fell within a few yards of his own boat, followed as above anticipated by a band of no less than 50 armed men.

On Mr. C.'s falling, the Females instantly sent two men who carried him on board senseless—when in the interim, a young Lad of about seventeen made his appearance at the head, and commenced loading his gun, which he then had in his hand, and threatened to fire at the Banditti if they did not retire, and allow the boat to pass unmolested. By this time they had arrived at the shore and hearing the Lad talking in English to those inside, seemed rather surprised, and consulted one with another what course to pursue, saying, that there were more "Sahibloog" (Gentleman) on board, and so remained, while the Goon being cut, and set a drift by those on board, the only resource left, and which in all probability rescued them from a merciless end; for had the banditti succeeded in boarding, no doubt remains their putting to the point of the sword a whole family consisting of seven persons.

At this juncture, the Boat was in the main branch of the river making all speed to the smaller branch on the Government side, which they succeeded in attaining, and proceeded to Mendy Ghant to the residence of a Gentlemen in charge of an Indigo Factory belonging to Messrs. Bathurst, Bush, and Co. who most kindly adopted the most prompt and efficacious measures, in procuring a conveyance for the unfortunate Mr. Chick, who arrived here senseless in 36 hours after the dreadful scene had taken place.

It is truly to be lamented that some protection is not afforded to travellers, coming up and going down the River. The instance just recited of the treachery of the Inhabitants in the Oude Country, is not the only one on record, and it is sincerely to be hoped, that some speedy measures may be adopted for the tracking upon the other side in safety, particularly as the course of the Ganges inclines more to the Oude side than the Government, which precludes the possibility of remaining on the latter; proceed on the former route therefore, we must, although so unsafe.

The unfortunate Mr. Chick has since the writing of the above undergone the operation of having his arm amputated, and earnestly it is to be hoped it may not endanger his life.

It is to the consideration of the Indian Public, this unfortunate and miserable case is submitted, in the sincere hope that the offenders may be demanded, and brought to such condign punishment as the British Laws may choose to inflict.
